A Public Service Externship is a law office field placement course in which a student receives academic credit for working under the supervision of an attorney as a law clerk in a government or public interest non-profit organization.

A Judicial Externship (see separate handbook) is a field placement in a state or federal court in the Southern California area. Other geographical locations will be considered on a case-by-case basis. The judicial extern acts as an aid to the judge, with duties similar to that of the judge’s regular law clerk.

The purpose of Externships are to supplement classroom instruction by placing the student in a law practice setting which will expand upon the subject matter of a course which the student has already taken or is taking concurrently with the externship. Since the student receives academic credit for the externship, the student may not receive wages or cash payment of any kind.

Participants in the Externship Program must read through this handbook before applying for credit. The handbooks detail application procedures and descriptive information on approved placements. They are also available on our website.

In this Handbook, you will find a list of pre-approved placements, the extern application, as well as several sections which detail your responsibilities over the course of your externship including: program policies and procedures, confidentiality issues, mid-semester meetings and progress report submission requirements. Please read them carefully and contact Dean Mead if you have any questions.

Please note: The extern application must be signed by you and your supervising attorney or judge and then submitted to Dean Mead; Dean Mead must approve all applications. You will be notified by email when your application has been approved. The Registrar will be provided a copy of your application prior to registration. The Registrar will enroll you in the course (Law 781 or Law 782); you will not have to register yourself for this course once your application has been approved.

Under no circumstances can you begin accumulating hours for academic credit until a completed application has been received and approved by Dean Mead. Hours worked prior to application submission and approval will not be accepted.
Externships provide a variety of opportunities for students to have direct experience with clients and legal problems in attorney-supervised settings as part of their second and third year curriculum. They are designed to be different from paid legal work available to law students because of the nature of the supervision provided. They are also intended to give students a breadth of assignments and a level of responsibility that are typically not available to paid student clerks. Externships serve a number of valuable objectives, depending on the placement, including:

1. Assisting students to further develop research, writing and drafting skills through work on legal documents such as complaints, answers, trial and appellate briefs, agreements, legal memoranda, motions, and opinion letters;

2. Exposing students to lawyering skills through participation in activities such as interviewing, counseling, negotiation, oral advocacy, investigation, and the formulation of case strategy;

3. Developing students’ oral advocacy skills through participation in, or observation of court, discovery and administrative proceedings;

4. Giving students practical legal experience, and enhancing their understanding of the application of the principles learned in law school to legal problems;

5. Giving students the opportunity to participate in, and reflect upon, the work of legal institutions;

6. Exposing students to issues of professional responsibility within the context of legal practice;

7. Encouraging students to explore and consider different roles for lawyers, and exposing them to the range of career opportunities available in the law;

8. Permitting students to gain practical experience in specialized areas of the law through experience that will supplement their course work within the law school; and

9. Instilling fundamental values of the legal profession, including the provision of competent representation, the promotion of justice, fairness and morality, and a commitment to an on-going process of professional self-development and growth.

Students get out of an externship what they want to get out of it. The more interest you demonstrate, the more likely the supervisor will delegate responsibility and treat you like a colleague. Students who report the most rewarding and educational experiences are the ones who fully dedicate themselves. Unlike a regular class, there is no faculty member to point out trends, make observations about the adversarial process, etc. Thus, students considering an externship should be self-starters and aggressive about their own learning experience in order to fully benefit from the opportunity.

How does the course credit work for an externship?

Each student is eligible to enroll in up to two externships, whether judicial or public service (or one of each). Each externship is available for two to four units. In rare cases, a student may be granted up to six units for work in the United States Attorney’s Office. However, this exception does not apply for summer externships, which are always limited to four units or less.

Enrolling in fewer than four units does not mean "extra" units are available; unused externship or externship units may not be accumulated for use at a later date.

Can I earn credit for work performed during the summer?

You can earn UP TO FOUR FALL SEMESTER UNITS during a summer externship. Please note: the four units will be part of your flat-rate tuition for a standard full-time semester's course load (13-17 units) for the fall semester immediately following the summer externship. There will be no exceptions to the "maximum four units" or the requirement that units earned during the summer be used the fall semester immediately following the summer externship, or not used at all.

Applications must be received by the deadline for that semester. (See Section 3.0 for fall, spring and summer deadlines.)

Can my two externship options (Law 781 and Law 782) be at the same placement?

Only in extraordinary circumstances, following approval by Dean Mead of a petition submitted to the Office of Public Service Office, may the two externships be at the same placement in different semesters. The student and placement supervisor must demonstrate in writing that the placements will be substantially different academic experiences.

How many hours must I accrue per unit?

For each academic unit received, you must work 56 hours in the clinical placement. This 56-hour requirement averages to 4 hours per week for each unit earned during a fourteen-week semester.

Who determines my work schedule?

The actual schedule worked will be negotiated between the student and the attorney supervisor, and need not follow a regular pattern of four hours per week (see above), as long as 56 hours are worked for each credit earned. All questions about work schedules, school vacations and holidays should be settled by agreement between the student and the attorney supervisor.

Can I receive a numerical grade for the externship?

No. Externships are graded on a CR/69/65 basis only. Credit will only be awarded after the Registrar receives notification from Dean Mead that all requirements have been met.

Can I extern if my GPA is below 2.9?

Your GPA must be 2.9 or above to participate in the externship program. If you are ineligible due to your GPA and wish to appeal, you may submit a detailed academic petition to Dean Chloe Reid. The petition must include: 1) the steps you are taking to improve your academic performance 2) an explanation as to how you will be able to perform at a reasonable level of competence at an outside placement while also being able to devote adequate attention to your academic work, as well as any other extenuating circumstances you believe warrant an exception to the policy. Dean Reid reviews these petitions on a case by case basis. Before submitting the petition, please carefully review section 6.1 of the Student handbook regarding the restricted enrollment guidelines.

Can I earn credit for an externship if I’m being paid for the work?

No. You cannot receive compensation for an externship other than reimbursements for incidental expenses, such as parking or photocopying.

Are there any prerequisites to enrolling in an externship?

Some placements require certain course prerequisites (i.e., if the externship is at Legal Aid's Maynard Toll Family Law Clinic, the student must have taken or be concurrently enrolled in Family Law). You should check the list of approved placements in this Handbook, Section 4.0 to find out if prerequisites are specified.

You should also carefully review all program requirements and determine your ability and willingness to comply prior to accepting the placement for academic credit.
What about the Law School’s other clinical programs?

The Law School offers three in-house clinical programs where you work under the direct supervision of full-time Law School faculty members. These programs are unparalleled in the intensity and quality of the supervision and overall education you receive. More information about these programs can be found at http://law.usc.edu/academics/ops/clinics.cfm.

Where can I apply to extern?

The first step towards obtaining an externship is deciding what you would like to accomplish by the experience. The decision is a function of numerous variables. Some of the reasons for choosing a particular externship placement include the desire to:

- Acquire actual courtroom experience
- Learn to interview and counsel clients
- Enhance research and writing skills
- Expose yourself to a particular area of law
- Confirm a perceived career choice
- Expose yourself to a possible career choice
- Network
- Experience a legal workplace
- Identify a practicing attorney mentor and
- Experience the practice of law outside the classroom.

For example, if you know you want to get into the courtroom during your externship you would consider the office of the district attorney or city attorney, as opposed to the ACLU. However, if your goal is to learn about environmental law, you would apply to the Natural Resources Defense Council or the State Attorney General's Environmental Division.

Section 4.0 contains a list of pre-approved placements and basic information about each site. This information is meant to provide an introduction to the positions available. More information is available in individual externship files in the Career Services Student Resource Room and by talking to students who have previously worked at the placement in which you are interested. Site evaluations from previous student externs are also available in the externship files for review.

What do I need to do if my placement offers the potential for courtroom appearances?

The State Bar of California allows students to be certified to appear in state courts under certain conditions. You, your supervising attorney, and a dean of the Law School must complete a three-part downloadable form available on the California State Bar website at www.calbar.ca.gov. For detailed instructions see the California State Bar Certification Instructions and http://calbar.ca.gov/state/calbar/calbar_generic.jsp?cid=10169&id=1342.

The State Bar requires that you:

- Are enrolled at the Law School in good standing
• Have completed at least one full year of legal studies
• Have successfully completed or are currently enrolled in and attending Civil Procedure and Evidence
• Include the $55 application fee

Please allow at least three weeks for the completed application to be returned to you once you have sent it to the State Bar. To ensure timely processing, be sure to complete the entire form before mailing it to the State Bar.

Can I apply to work at a public interest or government office not included on the list of approved placements in Section 4.0?

Only where the precise experience sought is not available at any of the pre-approved placements listed in this Handbook, can you submit an application to extern at a different non-profit public interest or government office. Be aware that only non-profit or government offices with a full-time staff attorney supervisor (a volunteer or pro bono attorney cannot be a supervisor) where you are performing law-related work will even be considered. In addition, the State Bar requires that the staff attorney supervisor have a minimum of two years experience as a practicing attorney. If your proposed placement satisfies these initial criteria, you must submit a proposal in writing to Dean Mead.

The proposal must include at least the following:

1. Basic information about the placement, including supervisor name, address, email address, and telephone number;
2. A description of the nature of the work you expect to perform;
3. Why you are unable to secure similar work through a pre-approved agency;
4. A statement that the placement is a non-profit or government agency;
5. A statement that your supervisor is a full-time attorney and has been a member of the bar for at least two years.

Dean Mead will then follow up with a questionnaire that the proposed supervisor must complete. Once all of the documentation is complete, Dean Mead will evaluate the proposal.

Note: Because this process can sometimes be lengthy, you should submit any proposal more than one month prior to the application deadline.

After reviewing the approved placements, what is the next step?

The goal of reviewing the list of approved placements is to create a list of placements/attorneys for who you would work if given an offer.
You can only create this list through good research. After reviewing the information provided in this Handbook, refine the list by performing further research. Each approved placement has a file in the Office of Public Service, which holds prior student evaluations (these often give the best information about the placement, quality of supervision, type of work performed, etc.), any direct solicitations from the placement, relevant newspaper articles or newsletters, etc. It is also helpful to, when available contact the student(s) who has previously worked at the placement to gain more insight and information.

Proposed externship placements are required, as with pre-approved externships, to provide malpractice insurance for students working for academic credit or volunteering. Please note the Law School does not provide malpractice insurance.
Are there enrollment limits?

Yes. The Clinical Externship Program has the following enrollment limits:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Season</th>
<th>Limit</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fall</td>
<td>25 students</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spring</td>
<td>30 students</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summer</td>
<td>60 students</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

What are the deadlines to apply?

The Clinical Externship Program deadlines are as follows:

Fall 2006: August 4, or until the enrollment limit is reached (whichever comes first), but no later than September 1, provided spaces are still available.

Spring 2007: November 10, or until the enrollment limit is reached (whichever comes first), but no later than January 19, provided spaces are still available.

Summer 2007: April 27, or until the enrollment limit is reached (whichever comes first), but no later than May 18, provided spaces are still available.

PLEASE NOTE: You should be applying to the placements for which you would like to work well before the program deadline to secure a position and submit application before the deadline.

How do I apply to the placement?

The short answer is: by sending whatever the placement has requested. Typically you should send a cover letter and resume; occasionally, you need to include a writing sample and a Record of Academic Performance (RAP).

Cover Letter

The purpose of the cover letter is to interest the reader in you as a prospective extern, and, therefore it should be a very positive presentation. The most effective cover letters are clear, concise, reflect that you are familiar with the work performed in the office, and written in a business letter style.
The first paragraph can state your reason for writing, the law school you attend, when you are available to work, and why you are interested in the office. Extern employers appreciate that you've done your homework; a simple statement about the office's work reflects that you have taken the time to research what their office does and is often a deciding factor as to whether or not to call you in for an interview.

The second paragraph is the body of your letter, the section in which you "sell" yourself to the supervisor. You can do this by highlighting those qualifications that you think are most significant to the individual who will read your letter. You may wish to reference your resume by highlighting those things about yourself that correlate with the office's needs. Do not repeat what is in the resume except to underscore something that will make you more marketable.

The third or final paragraph can suggest a convenient meeting time. Begin the paragraph by stating that you are available to meet at the supervisor's convenience. Thank the reader for considering you and say you are looking forward to a reply.

Finally, make sure you address the letter to the appropriate person -- spell his or her name correctly.

It is appropriate to follow-up with a telephone call to ask about the status of your "application" within a few weeks of mailing (unless the placement has expressly asked you not to do so).

Please refer to the Writing Cover Letters guide in your 1L binder, on the CSO website at http://law.usc.edu/career/students/coverletters.cfm, or the CSO Information Center in Room 110 for sample cover letters.

Resume

Your resume should highlight any experience especially relevant to the work at the placement. Please see the Building a Resume guide in your 1L binder, on the CSO website at http://law.usc.edu/career/students/resumes.cfm or in the CSO Information Center in Room 110 for sample resumes.

When do I apply?

Again, check the information about deadlines indicated under each placement. As enrollment is limited, the sooner you start applying the better off you will be. As a general rule, you should apply early in the semester preceding the semester for which you would like to extern (begin in August and September for Spring Externships; December and January for Summer externships; and June and July for Fall Externships), and as soon as you are confident you will accept an offer if given. (You should not apply for an externship until you are prepared to accept an offer. These attorneys are very busy; you don't want to waste their time -- or yours -- unless you are a serious candidate.) Perhaps just as important for you and the reputation of USC law students generally, and most relevant to summer positions, is that attorney supervisors expect that once the offer is accepted the student will not subsequently back out and accept a different position. An externship cannot be used as a placeholder until a paid, or for some reason "better" position becomes available. On the rare occasions that this has happened, attorney supervisors have been known to contact the student's school to say they would never again consider a resume from that school.

During which semester should I extern?

Generally, it makes the most sense to extern during the fall of your third year. Supervising attorneys are more inclined to delegate greater responsibility and more fully integrate you into the workplace if you have taken more law classes and perhaps, worked at a law job during the summer. It is generally unwise to extern first semester, second year. This is likely to be your busiest semester, especially if you are participating in on-campus interviews, working on a journal or moot court, have first year advisees, etc. It is difficult -- though not impossible -- to be off campus up to 16 hours a week and balance interviews and other obligations.

How should I prepare for the interview?

The truly prepared interviewee is the one who has done his or her homework. The following steps will prepare you for the interview:

- Review placement information available in this Handbook, Section 4.0
- Review placement files in the Office of Public Service, Room 100
- If a file contains a student evaluation, try to contact that student to learn more about the office, how it is set up, who the players are, what the work is like, what happened in that student's interview, etc.
- Conduct a Lexis-Nexis search to learn more about the role of the office and the kind of work it does. Additionally, conduct a search of the supervising attorney or name of the office.
- Anticipate questions that may be asked ("Why did you choose this office?" "Why is there a gap in your employment history?") and prepare responses.

The impressive candidate is the one who arrives at the interview confident, knowledgeable about the office and able to dialogue about the kind of work to be performed. For more information about interviewing, see the Interview Guide or the Call-Back Interview Guide both available in your 1L binder, on the Career Services website at http://law.usc.edu/career/students/guides.cfm or in the CSO Information Center in Room 110.
Once you have accepted an offer, you should immediately contact everyone who is still considering your application and withdraw your name from consideration.

Next, inform the Office of Public Service about the externship by completing the necessary paperwork. The Student Agreement/Application is available on our web site at http://law.usc.edu/career/students/is-only/assets/docs/Int-ExtApplication.pdf or in the Office of Public Service. You must complete and submit the externship application by the Priority Deadline or at least two days before your start date, but no later than the day before the last day to drop and add classes for fall or spring, or two weeks before your start date for summer provided the enrollment limit has not been reached, for the Office of Public Service staff to approve, process and send confirmation packets to site supervisors. Under no circumstances can you begin earning hours for academic credit until a completed application has been received and approved by Dean Mead. Hours worked prior to the approval date of the application will not be counted towards the externship.

The requirements are as follows:

- Submit bi-weekly, typewritten progress reports
- Complete the 56 hours per unit by the end of the semester/summer
- Submission of written answers to Guided Reflection questions throughout the course of the placement
- Complete a site evaluation of your experience by the conclusion of the semester
- Hold as absolutely confidential all information obtained directly or indirectly regarding your work
- Perform professionally and competently at your placement
- Receive a favorable evaluation from your supervisor
- Receive no compensation for the work.

Additional information about all requirements will be provided to you after you have obtained an externship. All participants in the externship program must adhere to program requirements. Failure to comply with all requirements may result in a reduction of units or removal from the program. All students participating in the externship program (particularly students doing a full-time externship) are responsible for checking their USC e-mail accounts and school mailboxes on a regular basis; not being on campus is no excuse for missing OCI, financial aid, registration and other deadlines and important notices.

STUDENT'S RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Each student must complete the required 56 hours per unit by the end of the semester;

2. Students must submit a bi-weekly, 2 to 5 page typewritten or word processed progress report. This is now available in a downloadable electronic format.

3. Students must submit written answers to provided guided reflection questions by the appropriate deadlines;

4. Students must regularly check Blackboard and their email;

5. The student cannot receive compensation for an externship other than reimbursements for incidental expenses, such as parking or photocopying;

6. Students are responsible for retaining photocopies of all materials submitted to Dean Mead;

7. Where applicable, students must also have already completed or be enrolled concurrently in a substantive law course which is substantially related to the externship; and

8. Students must author a written evaluation of their experience at the placement due at the end of the semester/summer, along with submission of the final progress report.
The Final Evaluation should include the following information:

- The kind of work performed;
- The amount and quality of supervision;
- What was learned;
- Whether and how often you were able to attend hearings, trials, depositions, client meetings and other proceedings;
- Whether the placement is recommended to other students;
- A brief description of the office space (including whether you had access to a computer, desk, phone, library, online research tools, etc).

These evaluations will be kept on file in the Office of Public Service, Room 100, for student review.

9. As this is an academic program which is closely monitored by the American Bar Association (ABA), it is essential for you to adhere to the guidelines in order to receive appropriate credit, and to maintain this valuable program at the law school. Please follow the guidelines below when filling out your progress reports:

a. You must include the date, time and total hours worked. If you choose not to use the electronic spreadsheet available on our website, please double check your calculations when totaling your hours.

b. You must include a description with substantive information regarding the legal work performed (e.g. types of cases and issues presented, types of documents produced, other work performed). Entries should reflect, in some detail: the nature of the issues researched, the subject of written assignments, the nature of client contact (if applicable to the placement), meetings with supervisors and other activities related to the work done in the office.

c. The entries must be organized on a daily basis. Non-law related activities, lunch hours and breaks cannot be counted as externship hours for purposes of meeting the 56 hour per unit requirement. Similarly, school, national or court holidays do not relieve students of the obligation to perform 56 hours of work per unit.

d. Progress reports must be turned in electronically by your supervisor, physically signed by the supervisor and turned in to room 100, or via fax at (213) 740-4822 on or before the stated deadline (see section regarding deadline dates).

II. FORMATTING

a. Please find a blank progress report and sample completed progress reports on pages 107-109. If you prefer to create your own forms, please make sure you provide ALL THE SAME INFORMATION IN THE SAME FORMAT AS THE SAMPLE.

b. At the top of each progress report, be sure to include the appropriate time period, the site name, supervising attorney’s or judge’s name and the due date for the hours/days your are reporting.

c. Days of work listed on a progress report should always fall within the particular time period being reported. For example, work done on September 15 falls within the September 5 - September 16 time period and should be reported on the progress report due September 21.

d. If you work on a weekend, please record those hours on the progress report for the relevant time period. For example, work done on Saturday, September 11 falls within the September 5 - September 16 time period and should be reported on the progress report due September 21.

III. DOCUMENTING HOURS

a. Non-law related activities, lunch hours and breaks cannot be counted as externship hours for purposes of meeting the 56 hours per unit requirement.

b. Please round off hours worked to the nearest quarter hour (e.g. 7.25 hours is seven hours and fifteen minutes of work). Do not use fractions to denote time (e.g. 7 1/4 hours should be 7.25).

c. Progress reports must be signed by the supervising attorney or judge. In the rare case that the judge or law clerk or supervising attorney is completely unavailable to sign your progress report in order for you to meet the relevant deadline, please send it in WITHOUT the signature with a note on the signature line saying: "[supervisor’s name] unavailable to sign--signed copy will follow by ________ (date)." The signed copy must be received no later than the Friday following the date for which that progress report was due. Again, this should be for extraordinary circumstances such as vacation or illness.

IV. SUBMISSION PROCESS

a. Progress reports should be turned in to your supervisor electronically, so your supervisor can submit them to us. They can also be submitted physically to room 100 or fax to: (213) 740-4822. If you choose to submit by fax, it is your responsibility to make sure the progress report successfully arrives in our office.

b. Please be aware that timely submission of the progress reports throughout the semester is mandatory and a prerequisite to your receiving academic credit. If you do not submit your progress reports in a timely manner, we may be required to reduce the number of hours of academic credit you receive. If there is a problem regarding your ability to comply with this requirement, please contact Dean Mead as soon as possible.

If you have questions about any of the above, please do not hesitate to contact Dean Mead at (213) 740-6314.
SUPERVISING ATTORNEY’S RESPONSIBILITIES

1. Each placement shall designate one attorney as the supervisor of the student extern/extern. This attorney is responsible for the overall supervision of the student's experience and must be available to the student and the Law School for consultation about the placement. This does not, however, preclude a student from working for other attorneys in the office. The supervising attorney must submit the students progress reports by email to the Law school or sign the student's progress reports prior to submission.

2. The supervising attorney should strive to provide the student with as many different kinds of experiences and responsibilities as the placement will allow. Ideally, students will have the opportunity to have direct client contact, observe or perform courtroom-type experiences, research, write, etc. Non-law related activities, lunch hours and breaks cannot be counted as externship hours for purposes of meeting the 56 hour per unit requirement.

3. All supervisors will be asked to prepare an evaluation of the student's work. Students cannot receive course credit until the evaluation has been received. A letter soliciting the evaluation will be sent at the end of the semester.

4. The supervisor must also agree to comply with the Greater Los Angeles Consortium on Externships’ (GLACE) Guidelines for Supervising Judges and Attorneys.

If you feel the placement is not complying with the above responsibilities, please contact Dean Mead as soon as possible.
JOINT STANDARDS FOR SUPERVISION OF EXTERNSHIP STUDENTS

Introduction

In 1993, six Los Angeles ABA accredited law schools formed the Greater Los Angeles Consortium on Externships (GLACE). The purpose of the organization is to develop joint standards for the supervision of externship students by field attorney supervisors. Participating GLACE law schools are Loyola Law School, Pepperdine University School of Law, Southwestern University School of Law, UCLA School of Law, the USC Law School and Whittier Law School.

The American Bar Association standard 306 relating to law school field placement programs has been interpreted to require that any law school permitting students to participate in activities or studies away from the law school develop and publish a statement defining the educational objectives of externship programs. While each individual participating school has developed specific objectives, GLACE law schools have prepared this handbook of joint field placement educational objectives and supervision standards for the assistance of all supervising attorneys and students who participate in field programs. The GLACE-endorsed educational objectives of externship placements are:

1. To encourage the further development of student research, writing and drafting skills through work on legal documents such as complaints, answers, trial and appellate briefs, agreements, legal memoranda, motions, and opinion letters;

2. To expose students to lawyering skills through participation in activities such as interviewing, counseling, negotiation, oral advocacy, investigation, and the formulation of case strategy;

3. To develop students' oral advocacy skills through participation in, or observation of court, discovery and administrative proceedings;
4. To give students practical legal experience, and to enhance their understanding of the application of the principles learned in law school to legal problems;

5. To give students the opportunity to participate in, and reflect upon, the work of legal institutions;

6. To expose students to issues of professional responsibility within the context of legal practice;

7. To encourage students to explore and consider different roles for lawyers, and to expose them to the range of career opportunities available in the law;

8. To permit students to gain practical experience in specialized areas of the law through experience that will supplement their course work within the law school; and

9. To instill fundamental values of the legal profession, including the provision of competent representation, the promotion of justice, fairness and morality, and a commitment to an on-going process of professional self-development and growth.

THE ROLE OF THE SUPERVISING ATTORNEY IN ACHIEVING EXTERNSHIP OBJECTIVES

In any externship program, the ability of the student to achieve the goals stated above depends in large measure on the quality of the student's relationship to his or her supervising attorney and the supervisory methods employed by the supervisor. The success of field placement programs depends on the willingness and ability of the supervising attorneys to serve as available role models and teachers. A good attorney's skills are not necessarily those of a good supervisor. Good supervision requires certain skills, techniques and attitudes which can be learned and applied effectively.

An essential component of effective supervision is a reasonable supervisor-to-student ratio. Under the State Bar of California "Practical Rules for the Training of Law Students", one attorney may not supervise more than five certified law students at any time, and must be a licensed practicing attorney for two years prior to undertaking supervision of a certified law student. While there is no limitation on the number of uncertified law students an attorney may supervise, and no required licensing period when supervising uncertified law students, GLACE law schools recommend that the one-to-four ratio is appropriate for adequate supervision in part-time field placements, and recommends that supervising attorneys have at least two years of practical experience. For full time externships, GLACE law schools recommend a one-to-one ratio between students and field supervisors.
Although GLACE law schools do not currently provide a specific, in-person training program for supervisors, GLACE schools suggest that quality supervision involves conscious application of several principles discussed below.

1. Providing a variety of well-defined tasks which encourage the learning of a range of lawyering skills.

   For a student to function effectively, the supervisor should clearly explain what the assigned task involves and should put the specific task into the context of the entire case or issue on which the supervisor is working. Although narrow research projects may help the supervisor and be appropriate student projects, their true benefit to the student as a learning process comes from an explanation of how the particular issues arising in the small project fit into the context of and affect the whole case. Many students arrive at a placement with no academic or practical experience in the kind of law that is practiced there. Therefore, it is incumbent upon the supervisor to explain carefully the scope of the project, the work necessary to complete it, and a time estimate of how long the supervisor expects the student to work on the project.

   Students should be encouraged to put their research into writing whenever possible. Even if the written form is less expedient, students need experience and practice in synthesizing their research into a coherent written product.

   In our experience, the best externship experience offers a variety of assignments, in addition to the traditional tasks of legal research and drafting legal memoranda. The experience should also include observation of courts, judges and lawyers, meetings, conferences, negotiations and telephone communications, as well as a discussion of the supervisor’s interactions when completed. Whenever possible, students should be allowed to directly experience doing what they have observed others performing.

2. Providing students with insight into the workings of the legal system and profession.

   One of the most important benefits of an externship program is that students can immerse themselves into a particular office and aspect of the legal system. In order to achieve this, the student should be exposed to a variety of situations and the supervising attorney should take the time to discuss what is observed. In many externships, students spend large amounts of time in relative isolation in the library. These students will not have a significantly better idea of the functioning of the legal system as a result of this experience, and GLACE law schools disfavor this type of placement. Even a student engaged in substantial research should be involved in the analysis of that research and its application. It is important, therefore, to explain the context in which an assignment arises and, whenever possible, to allow the student to see the application of his or her work product.

3. Developing professional responsibility skills through observation and application in the workplace.

   Professional responsibility is a required course in the law school curriculum. The externship can supplement classroom learning by providing opportunities to see or be involved with actual professional responsibility decisions confronting practicing attorneys daily in court, with clients, with jurors and in conflict situations. All of these situations can generate professional responsibility questions and explanations. The externship is an excellent opportunity to learn about obligations to the client or the court, to explore the limits of client confidentiality, to learn to meet deadlines, and to learn basic work habits and skills. The supervisor should be both critical and reinforcing when a student has either failed or succeeded in meeting professional responsibility goals. Supervisors should be alert to professional responsibility issues, and raise them with externs as such issues present themselves.

1. Developing the student's ability to learn from experience, including critical professional feedback on performance.

   Feedback on written work and other task performance is essential in field placements. Meaningful feedback consists of very specific information. It involves careful observation of student performance or product and tactful honesty in communicating the supervisor's views. A student learns nothing constructive from comments such as "good job" or "you'll do better next time." The supervisor should provide specific examples of what the student said, did, or wrote with a clear and detailed explanation as to why the work was sufficient or inadequate. Good feedback assures that the student fully understands the strengths and weaknesses of his or her performance in order to build upon them in future assignments.

   Students should also be given an opportunity to learn self-evaluation skills. This means that some constructive dialogue between the supervisor and the student should take place to allow the student to recognize where he or she has been making mistakes in performance or legal analysis.

   Certain supervisory methods are preferable in student evaluation. Generally, students learn more effectively when supervision is non-directive and student-centered. Rather than telling a student exactly what to do and where to find the answer, a supervisor should take the time and explain the context of an issue and the nature of the task being assigned, to discuss the student's reaction to the problem, to help the student form problem-solving strategies, to agree upon a schedule for the project and the form which the student's work should take. Interim meetings should be held to discuss progress and to avoid misdirection, as well as to reassess the nature of the issues in light of the student's work to date.

   GLACE law schools encourage all field supervisors to take the time to openly and candidly discuss their views of the legal system with students. Even the most insightful students will learn much more by hearing directly the opinions of their supervisors about the range of issues concerning law practice and roles of lawyers in the institutions in which they are involved.

INDIVIDUAL SCHOOL AND STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES
In addition to this introduction to effective field supervision, each GLACE law school has individual policies and procedures applicable to its students. The GLACE school placing your extern has attached a copy of specific policies and requirements necessary for completion of the externship course at that GLACE law school.

GLACE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY POLICY

GLACE law schools are committed to a policy against discrimination in employment based on color, race, religion, marital status, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, physical disabilities and military status.

Pepperdine University School of Law is committed to a policy against unlawful discrimination in employment based on color, race, religion, marital status, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, physical disabilities and military status.
It is extremely important to emphasize that you must keep strictly confidential all information about cases and/or clients. This includes written and oral communications between you and your judge, client, and/or supervising attorney. Confidentiality violations are a serious breach of ethics and could have significant ramifications for your entry into the profession. With regards to progress reports, please be conscientious of providing detailed substantive information regarding the legal work performed without revealing case or party names (see progress report samples beginning on page 107).

If you have any questions about what may or may not be considered "confidential", please do not hesitate to contact Dean Mead or discuss the matter with your supervisor.
