invites applications for

Graduate Student and Law Student Fellowships

The Center for Law, History, and Culture is an inter-disciplinary research center supported by the Gould School of Law and USC College. CLHC graduate fellowships are designed to support USC law students and graduate students in the humanities who are interested in the interdisciplinary study of law and the humanities. Graduate fellows participate in the various events sponsored by the Center for Law, History, and Culture, including workshops of works-in-progress, book talks, conferences and symposia. In addition, graduate fellows receive $1000.00 in financial support for either (a) research expenses related to their own scholarship in an area of law and the humanities or (b) travel to the annual Law, Culture, and Humanities Conference, which takes place this year at Brown University in Providence, R.I., on March 19-20, 2010 (for more details, see http://www.law.syr.edu/academics/centers/lch/conference.html).

To apply for a CLHC fellowship, please submit a letter describing your research project and your interest in the area of law and humanities, along with a CV or resume. For those of you applying for research related expenses, please include a budget itemizing your projected expenses. If you are applying to go to the LCH conference, there are two ways to go -- either as a paper-presenter or as a spectator. For those of you who are interested in presenting papers, you can submit online at www.regonline.com/13thAnnual; note that the submission deadline for LCH paper proposals is October 15, 2009. Also, the CLHC Co-Directors can help you organize a panel, if you are interested in presenting your research together with like-minded scholars.

APPLICATION DEADLINE FOR CLHC FELLOWSHIPS IS TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 8

Applications or questions to: Mira Dalpe or Julie Davis: 213-821-1239 or clhc@law.usc.edu