JOHN ADAMS brings 20 years of experience as an architect, real estate strategist and planner to his role as Co-Managing Director of Gensler’s Los Angeles office. Invested in the continued renewal of downtown Los Angeles, John is an advocate for high-performance building repositioning, creative office space and sustainable urban development.

RICK J. CARUSO is the Founder and CEO of Caruso, one of the largest and most admired privately held real estate companies in the U.S. Its world-class portfolio of properties continues to expand and include more than a dozen internationally renowned and award-winning retail, residential, mixed-use, and resort hotel destinations. Rick has received numerous awards and distinctions for both his professional and philanthropic work and currently serves as Chair of the USC Board of Trustees.

WENDY J. GREUEL was appointed to the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority’s Board of Commissioners by Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti. She served as a member of the Los Angeles City Council from 2002-2009, where she represented San Fernando Valley and later served as Los Angeles City Controller from 2009 through 2013, where she was the second woman elected to citywide office in Los Angeles.

MICHAEL HACKMAN is the CEO of Hackman Capital Partners, which he founded in 1986. Michael has 40 years of experience in the acquisition, development, management and disposition of real estate assets and has successfully completed hundreds of real estate transactions and capital asset liquidations on four different continents representing in excess of $3B in value.

STANLEY L. IEZMAN is American Realty Advisor’s Chairman and CEO, responsible for the strategic planning and direction of ARA’s investing and operational activities. He is a member of the firm’s Investment, Management, and Operations Committees and the Board of Directors. Mr. Iezman is a noted speaker on real estate investment and has authored numerous articles on related issues for real estate, pension, and legal industry publications.

JESSIE KORNBERG joined Bet Tzedek as President and CEO in 2014 and during her tenure, has seen the agency grow to address the most pressing legal issues facing low-income families, including the nation’s first transgender medical-legal partnership, Los Angeles’ first low-income tax and small business start-up clinics, and a family preparedness program to respond to growing concerns surrounding the deportation of undocumented parents.

MICHAEL ROSENFELD is the Founder and CEO of Woodridge Capital Partners, a broad-based, multi-disciplined real estate investment and development company based in Los Angeles. Woodridge and its affiliates own and develop residential, hotel, resort, and commercial properties throughout the U.S. Mr. Rosenfeld has been a recognized leader in the real estate industry for nearly 30 years and received the Transaction of the Year Award by Americas Lodging Investment Summit for the Century Plaza Hotel and the San Francisco Business Times Hotel Deal of the Year Award for The Fairmont San Francisco Hotel.

AMY WAN is Co-Founder and CEO of Sagewise, a legaltech blockchain company. She hosts The Law and Blockchain Podcast (a show on The Bitcoin Podcast Network) and has authored the Bloomberg Law practice guide to ICOs and LexisNexus’ Private Equity practice guide. Previously, she was a partner at a boutique securities law firm and General Counsel at a real estate crowdfunding platform.

A Conversation with Real Estate Icons

Join two of the most innovative developers in Los Angeles today, Hackman Capital Partners CEO Michael Hackman and Woodridge Capital Partners CEO Michael Rosenfeld, in a conversation with LaSalle Mortgage Real Estate Investors President Glenn Sonnenberg. Hackman Capital Partners’ most recent high profile project is the over $2 billion renovation of the Century Plaza Hotel while Woodridge Capital Partners made news with the Culver City Studios (with Amazon as a recently signed tenant) and the acquisition of CBS Television City. Both real estate icons will reflect on the changing nature of real estate development in greater Los Angeles, the major adaptive reuse projects in West Los Angeles, their thoughts on the economic and demographic drivers of the region and how they believe Los Angeles will look in ten years.

From Youth to Maturity: What Changing Demographics Mean for Real Estate

The times they are a-changin’. As baby boomers age, the national conversation has increasingly shifted to how we will house and service this growing demographic. At the same time, Millennials and the “Z” generation are seeking work spaces and living environments that respond to their needs and the stagnancy of wage growth in their demographic. Hear experts on both sides of these challenges with ARA’s Stanley Iezman addressing the graying of America and its impact on retirement savings and funding for an aging population as well as the outlook for real estate followed by a counterpoint presentation from Gensler’s John Adams addressing how real estate developers are reacting to the changing needs and lifestyles of 20 and 30 somethings.

Opportunity Zones: All Hype or the Real Deal?

Since being enacted as part of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017, the tax incentives provided by investing in Qualified Opportunity Zone businesses and properties have received unprecedented interest in the real estate community. This panel goes beyond a simple description of the rules and discusses actual Opportunity Zone investments and the likely impact these new provisions of the tax law will have on future urban development.

A Conversation with Rick J. Caruso

In an age of disruption in the way people live and shop, few have not only survived the challenges – but have thrived. Rick Caruso has created people friendly developments such as the Grove, Americana and the new transformative project in Pacific Palisades that enhanced the quality of life and changed retail experiences and surrounding neighborhoods. All this while he has led a career of civic engagement and philanthropy, including his leadership roles with the police commission, the airport commission, USC and the USC Catholic Center, among others. Rick will share his experiences, lessons learned and vision for the future in a candid 30 minute lunchtime conversation.

As the healthcare industry shifts the delivery of services to non-traditional settings, it is becoming increasingly important for healthcare providers, developers, investors and attorneys to understand the trends underlying the industry and the issues surrounding healthcare uses. This session will provide an overview of major healthcare trends that affect real estate growth, such as the “population health” movement and the shift to retail space and urban core communities, the rapid consolidation of healthcare providers, the increasing focus on outpatient versus inpatient care, and the challenges and opportunities involved in the investment, entitlement and development of healthcare projects. The panel will also cover industry specific issues in underwriting healthcare deals, including a summary of regulatory issues that present unique issues for healthcare users and their landlords.

Homeless in L.A.: Will We Solve This Crisis? (The Sequel)

As a follow up to last year’s session in which we learned about the homelessness crisis in L.A. and how the City and County planned to solve it, this panel will explore what has happened since last year, what has worked, what has not worked and what we need to do to solve this crisis moving forward. Specifically, they will discuss what has happened since the passage of Measures H and HHH, what progress has been made, what barriers exist to future progress, what populations are the most at risk, and what real estate professionals and policy makers can and should be doing to solve this crisis.

Nuts & Bolts Refresher on the Transactional Components of Workouts

This panel begins with a discussion of what distinguishes a workout from a loan modification, including perspectives on where we are currently in the cycle and the roles of client and counsel. The panelists will then tackle the different components of a workout, starting with a notice of an event of default and pre-negotiation agreement through standstill agreements and finally reinstatements and deeds-in-lieu. Lender, borrower, and counsel for each side will offer their views on the key transactional components of a successful (or unsuccessful) workout.

CHANGING WORLD TRACK SESSION 3A

How Can Lawyers Change the World?

Lawyers, through their experience and specialized knowledge, are uniquely situated to assist individuals, non-profits, charities and communities navigate a wide range of social and transactional issues that make a lasting impact (sometimes referred to as “Impact Transactional Work”). This panel will discuss practical ways in which real estate and other transactional lawyers can help bring about meaningful change, through legal and non-legal work, and how lawyers can change the world with a relationship focused, holistic approach, to issues both big and small, recognizing that there is no silver bullet to most social and community problems.

Housing Track Session 3C

Proposition 10, Is It Dead? Or Just Resting?
Proposition 10, the controversial ballot initiative to repeal Costa Hawkins (a state law limiting rent control), was rejected by voters last November. But, housing advocates are still pushing for stronger rent control and it is widely expected that either a follow-on initiative or other legislation could be adopted soon. If Costa Hawkins is repealed, cities like Santa Monica, West Hollywood and Berkeley, could eliminate vacancy decontrol and impose much stricter limits on rents. There are raging debates over whether rent control policies are harmful or helpful to the production and maintenance of housing. Come hear about the politics of any revived initiative, the types of measures Santa Monica would consider if Costa-Hawkins were repealed, and the impacts of rent stabilization on the production of housing.
